The Omaha, Nebraska & Black Hills rail-road, a branch line of the Union Pacific road, through its attorneys filed an appeal case in the supreme court westerday in the case of O'Donnell against the road for damages for personal injuries and loss of property. The facts, as shown in the record of this case, seem to be that prior to May, 1886, O'Donnell, in driving over a crossing with his team, was struck by a passing train; that his team was killed, his wagon broken and himself badly injured. For this reason he filed his petition in the district court of Platte county, asking damages for $10,000. On the 27th day of January, 1887, the case through its attorneys filed an appeal case in On the 27th day of January, 1887, the case was tried, and O'Donnell secured a verdict for $5,500. A new trial, however, was secured by the road, and on the 9th of April the case was again tried, resulting on this second hearing in a verdict for $5,000 for O'Dennell The road now appeals the case to the su-preme court for a reversal and a new trial. The netition claims that new and important testimony for the road has been found.

THAT REVNOLDS CASE.

Lancoln, Neb., April 14.—To the Editor of the Bes: In your issue of to-day (the 14th is an article, entitled "Put Him to Wiping Engines," which demands an answer, and Engines," which demands an answer, and believing you to be a conservative man in all that pertains to right and fair play, and be-lieving you will do us the kindness to pub-lish our article, and thereby allow us to meet the charges as preferred by Mr. Reynolds in the charges as preferred by Mr. Revnelds in the same court that he has seen fit to produce them in, and knowing as we do that the great public are willing and anxious to learn both sides of a story, we respectfully submit our article, avoiding at all times any desire to injure the private character of any man. You are well aware that through all the late troubles of the B. & M. railroad the officers of the road have had crowded upon them difficulties and trials that would tend to crush down any less weak or despairing to crush down any less weak or despairing hearts, and upon whom, I ask, would the weight of the difficulties fall, (the labor part) ! Upon the subordinate officers and their as sistants, and among them none have exhibited more heroic fortitude and forbearance than our esteemed and worthy master mechanic, Mr. J. C. Goalsburg. Not a step was taken by him, day or night, but that he was followed by those solications for favors and labor, as thousands are ready to testify. Ge into his office and there on his desk were piled stacks of mail communications from parties making applications for labor, etc., and from over the wires often came similar messages to that of Mr. Reynolds. Now Mr. Reynolds must certainly be aware of the above facts, and he must be aware also that above facts, and he must be aware also that Mr. J. C. Goaisburg had a greater duty to perform than answering all those letters, etc. He must protect the company's interest. His duties demand it. Hundreds of men claiming to be engineers sprang up from all over the country. They send in their application and expect him to answer them and to have a knowledge of him who sent it—his character, his ability, his experience, without seeing the person himself. When Mr. Goalsburg employed a new engineer, he had not burg employed a new engineer, he had not only the company's interest in view, but he had an eye to the public welfare. Every man, before he selected him as an engineer, must pease through an impartial examination as to his knowledge of the locomotive, its practical management, and the drawing of trains, etc. When Mr. G. found the man not up to the standard he kindly gave him such employment as he thought proper or which might become useful in the future. Mr. Reynolds was shown every courtesy

Mr. Reynolds was shown every courtesy and care his abilities and knowledge of the locomotive would allow. On March 15 he was put to work. March 19 he applied for transportation to Grand Island and return, with his son. His claim was that it was to take care of his stock and prepare to come to Lincoln. His request was granted. When at Grand Island he wired Mr. Saulsbury that if he could be assured steady work he would if he could be assured steady work he would return, but before Mr. Saulsbury could wire his answer Mr. Reynolds and son were in Lincoln. That was March 31. He worked seven days before he concluded to resign. His excuse for resigning was that he was a carrenter by trade and was the owner of a carpenter by trade, and was the owner of a full set of tools, and that he could earn more at his carpenter trade than at work in the railroad shops or on the road.

CALCUTTA'S BLACK HOLE

Duplicated Within the Heart of Omaha.

The jail facilities at the central station are entirely insufficient, and the city council should take immediate steps toward enlarging and extending the same. There are four cells, narrow, cramped and dirty, and in these fifthy, foul confines there were packed this morning no less than sixty-one prisoners, when there is hardly decent accommodation for one-half that number. They have to take turn about in lying down, there not eing space enough for more than ten to out stretch themselves at once. It is really in numan to pen men up here for any period of time, however short. The whole place is illy-ventilated, and with the cess-pool oc-casioned by defective sewerage beneath the building, makes it a horrible stench hole indeed. Twenty-four hours spent amidst the dark and mephitic airs of these dens is all sufficient to sow the seeds of disease and death within the veins of the hardiest and most rugged.

A Brewer Says That They Will Not Strike.

"There is no prospect of a brewers' strike in Omaha," said William Krug, of Fred Krug's brewery, to a Bun reporter yesterday. "If you doubt it, I'd like to have you interview some of the men. They are treated better here than they are in the eastern part of the country. Some men who went east to work several months ago, have returned to Omaha and are pleased to remain here. There are about seventy-five first-class brewers in this city, but in this number I do not include all the employes in the several breweries. who of course would number several hundreds. The pay of these men ranges from $50 to $75 per. month. They work, say an hour before the wagons go out in the morning, then from 7 to 12, then from 2 to 6 o'clock in the evening. The hours are not watched closely against them, and sometimes they do not go to work for half an hour after they reach the brew-ery. There are no members of the brewers' union in the city, as there is no branch of it here. All the manufacturing brewers, however, are members of the national association. This organization is locking out the men in New York not because it wants to cut their wages down or insist upon more hours of work, but because the members want to run their own business without the dictation of labor unions. The bosses are paying the old wages, exacting only the same amount of abor, and allowing the men as formerly, all the beer they want to drink. We have no trouble here, and don't expect any."

John Johnson has been a trusted employe n the large grocer house of Paxton, Gallagher & Co., but it seems has lately falien under the cloud of suspicion. Sunday on information received from Ottumwa, Ia., charging him with grand larceny, he was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Lew Grobs and lodged in the county jail. Johnson claims utter ignorance as to the enuses that have led to his arrest. He says, however, that he formerly lived in Ottumwa, and was connected with the boot and shoe house of Cushing. Manning & Co., and while there was associated with the page and while there was associated with the man occupying the position of bad debt collector. This is the only possible way he claims that he could be entangled with anything discep-

"Don't Marry Him!" "He is such a fickte, inconstant fellow, you will never be happy with him," said Esther's friends when they learned of her engagement to a young man who bore the reputation of being sad flirt. Esther, however, knew that her lover had good qualities, and she was willing to take the risk. In nine cases out of ten it would have proved a mistake; but Esther was an uncommon girl, and to every one's surprise Fred made a model husband. How was it? Well Esther had a cheerful, sunny temper and a great deal of tact. Then she enjoyed perfect health and was always so sweet, neat and wholesome that Fred found his own home most pleasant, and his own wife more agreeable than any other being. As the year passed and he saw other women of Esther's age grow.sickly. faded and querulous, he realized more and more that he had "a ewel of a wife." Good health was half the secret of Esther's success. She retained her vitality and good looks, be-cause she warded off femine weaknesses and ailments by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

The excellent band of musicians from Fort Omaha accorded Major General Crook a serenade at the Paxton last night. The performers were located in the corridor, which was crowded with an enthusiastic and appreciative audience. The balconies and reception rooms were given up to the general and invited guests, who represented the elite and fashion of the city. Commissioned officers from the fort appeared in full uniform, and assisted their brave and esteemed superior in entertaining the company. The seperary is entertaining the company. The serenade lasted until 10 p. m., and the programme embraced classical music and the popular national and operatic airs of the day.

A dispatch was received vesterday announcing the death of Lieutenant William C. Muhlenberg, first lieutenant of Company B, Second infantry, now stationed here. The officers feel deeply the loss of their comrade who always held the esteem and respect of all who knew him. In addition to the military qualities and soldier-like bearing of Lieutenant Muhlenberg, he also possessed admirable social qualities, which rendered him dear to many outside of military circles. He died on the 10th, of consumption, in the small town of Lewiston, Idaho. He leaves a wife. He was a typical soldier, scholar and gentleman.

A QUIET MEETING.

The Board of Education Discusses

School Sites and Plans. The session of the board of education last evening was unusually quiet and uneventful, lacking the stirring features that have marked the meetings for some time of late. Hugh Murphy's offer to sell a school site on the corner of Sixteenth and California for $17,-000 brought out some mild discussion whether a school should be built there or the proposed high school addition commenced Yesterday was the day set by Judge Shields for hearing the testimony in the application of Mrs. S. P. Rounds for the removal of O. H. Rothacker as guardian of his children, but by mutual consent of the interested parties extension of time for one month was allowed by the cours.

When the bill of F. M. Ellis for $700 due on plans and specifications furnished for a proposed building on the high school grounds was presented it created some discussion, as the plans have been gluandoued and those for an addition commenced.
